PROCEEDINGS OF THE CITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

An Ordinance Imposing License Tax for Shows of Various Kinds Adopted. Division Street to Be Improved.

The city board of trustees met in regular session in the city hall last Monday night.

A communication was received from Stephen Parr surrendering his Class A liquor license to conduct a saloon at the northwest corner of Grand avenue and San Bruno road.

Upon motion of Trustee McGovern, seconded by Trustee Kelley, the license was revoked.

An application was received from Elie Allemand for the revoked Class A liquor license of Stephen Parr, he having purchased Parr's saloon business.

Upon motion of Trustee McGovern, seconded by Trustee Holston, the license was granted to Allemand.

City Superintendent of Streets Kneese reported the grading of Maple avenue at its northern end was about completed, and that considerable rock had been obtained by blasting from the San Bruno road quarry. Some of the dirt streets had been materially improved by the use of the city's road drag.

The planting of more trees this season was discussed at length. The clerk was directed to obtain prices for acacia and elm trees.

Recorder Rehberg reported he had disposed of eight misdemeanor cases during October and had collected $55 in fines.

The report was accepted and ordered filed.

Several claims against the city were presented and ordered paid.

An ordinance imposing a license tax upon shows of various kinds was adopted. The ordinance is printed in another column.

Trustee Hickey introduced an ordinance defining the boundaries and elevations of Division street, between Grand and Armour avenues, and Armour avenue, between San Bruno road and Division street.

The ordinance will come up for adoption at the next meeting.

A request for a rebate on taxes of $5.20 received from J. E. G. Benjamin was granted, upon motion of Trustee Holston, seconded by Trustee Hickey.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS TOLD IN BRIEF

The concrete foundations for the big Shaw-Batcher Co. pipeworks are nearly completed.

The new wire fence in front of the grammar school grounds is completed and is a decided improvement.

The hill slopes of this city are again taking on their annual carpets of green. In a short time wild flowers will be blooming in all their glory.

Robert Fowler, the aviator, passed over this city shortly before 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon on his way from San Francisco to visit his parents in Gilroy. He made the distance of 80 miles in 90 minutes.

The ball given by the local baseball club in Metropolitan Hall last Saturday was a very enjoyable affair. Everybody who attended had a splendid time, and the boys deserve credit for the manner in which it was conducted.

Thos. R. Bannerman, owner of the building on Grand avenue formerly occupied by Jacobs Co., has improved it by dividing it into two storerooms, one to be occupied by a fruit and vegetable business and the other by Sasmann & Quinn's moving picture show.

Ren Wood was fined $5 by Recorder Rehberg last Tuesday for assaulting Chas. Sasmann. Wood had been a former partner of Sasmann's in the moving picture business in this city and on Saturday, November 16th, in a quarrel over money matters, Wood struck Sasmann on one of his eyes. The complaint was sworn to by Sasmann. A similar complaint against Sasmann sworn to by Wood was dismissed.

Next Tuesday evening a splendid entertainment will be given in Metropolitan Hall for the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase a piano for the grammar school. Many tickets of admission have been sold by the school children and it is desired by the school authorities that many more be disposed of. This piano is badly needed and all who have not purchased tickets should do so at once. Do not be satisfied with buying only one, but obtain as many as you can afford. They are 25 cents each and will have to be sold to raise sufficient money to buy a piano.

The dead body of Samuel Odavich, proprietor of the Silver Moon restaurant, San Francisco, on Thursday was found in the hills a short distance north of this city back of Holy Cross cemetery. City Marshall Kneese and Constable Wallace of this city aided in the search. Some boys walking over the hills first discovered the body and reported it. Thursday night an inquest was held at Colma and a verdict of death with suicidal intent was brought in by the jury. Deceased had shot himself with a revolver, the bullet entering the mouth and continuing upward into the head. The revolver was found lying alongside the body.

Died—In Oakland, November 20th, Dr. George T. Baker, aged 52 years. Dr. Baker was in charge of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry in this state for a number of years, prior to his going to Manila, where he had been stationed for over a year. He came back to Oakland a short time ago on account of his health. He leaves a widow and married daughter to mourn his loss. He was well-known in this city which he visited occasionally in the performance of his duties as head of the government inspectors at the Western Meat Company's packing house. Interment was made at Cypress Lawn cemetery this morning.

"The Hub," Langenbach and Guidi proprietors, has added a department for ladies and children and holiday goods and toys to its store. The women of San Bruno are especially invited to inspect the stock. The prices are right and compare favorably with those of any store in San Francisco.

THE FREE PIANO CONTEST BECOMING TALK OF TOWN

Special Prize of Silverware to Be Given to Candidate Receiving Highest Vote in First Count of Ballots.

The free piano contest is progressing nicely and interest is increasing each week. As the contest becomes more understood, many more young women desire to become candidates.

Whatever you do—Do It Now. Secure as many subscriptions to The Enterprise and do as much trading as you can at the stores associated in this contest and receive ballots for every cash purchase.

It is desired that all votes received be cast as soon as possible, and in order to bring that about The Enterprise will soon give away silverware to the candidate casting the most votes each week.

A special prize of a twenty-piece set of silverware will be given to the candidate receiving the highest vote in the first count of ballots, so get busy and get your votes in.

This beautiful silverware can be seen in the front window of The Enterprise office.

J. Carmody, South City Pharmacy, W. C. Schneider and the South City Lumber and Supply Co. are associated with The Enterprise in this contest. When making cash purchases of them ask for votes which you can cast for yourself or a friend.

New candidates may enter the contest by depositing 2000 votes in the ballot box in The Enterprise office. This privilege will be good until December 1st when the number of votes necessary to become a new candidate will be raised to 4000.

Have you ever thought about the one absolutely necessary quality in the contest to win? Has it ever occurred to you that this quality must be the predominant characteristic of the candidates who bring home the prizes? Boiled down, concentrated and briefly stated, this one quality is enthusiasm. Enthusiasm is simply spelling success in another way.

Candidates are asked to remember that they are engaged in a big business proposition. In a campaign for votes, candidates have the assurance that they will receive the moral support of The Enterprise and the business houses associated in the contest, who never have, would not and could not afford to ally themselves with any business or proposition that savored ever so slightly of unfairness. Contestants may approach their friends in full knowledge that the conditions of this contest are absolutely fair; that every candidate has exactly the same chance, and that every vote will be counted for the candidate turning it in, and that the responsibility of The Enterprise and the associated business men is not a question of guess work. This is a generous, dignified appeal to the sober, serious minded people of this section.

Following are the names of young women of this city who have been nominated and entitled to 1000 votes each:

A. M. ROBERTSON FOR COLLECTOR OF PORT

A. M. Robertson, of Redwood City, is recommended by his many friends, republicans and democrats, for the office of collector of the port of San Francisco, to succeed Fred S. Stratton, present collector, whose term will expire next January.

In fact, republicans who took active part in the late campaign in this state were first to suggest Robertson for the place and secured his consent to stand as a candidate. Among these are W. A. Doble, president of the Republican Wilson Club; Julius Young, vice-president, and George Sargent, secretary-treasurer. While these were the active organizers of Taft Republicans into the Republican Wilson Club, the organization was suggested and planned by Robertson.

Mr. Robertson is a well-known publisher in San Francisco and lives in Redwood City. He is called by his friends the very best of men, and one worthy of occupying the office of collector. It is urged that President Taft do not appoint a republican to the position, but to leave the office to the victorious democrats by proposing Mr. Robertson.

There will be on sale at the local Southern Pacific office on November 27th and 28th Thanksgiving return tickets to any station to which the fare is $10 or less at one fare and one third, good to return until December 2d.

For Sale Lot at a Bargain—Lot 16, block 27, back of school house. Price $300. Philip Doolan, 223 Monadnock Building, San Francisco. Advt.

DANCING ACADEMY MAY BE STARTED

Many of the parents of this city believe the time opportune for the establishment of a dancing academy here at which their children, both boys and girls, can be taught modern dancing. Efforts are being made to induce Miss Helen Adler, an accomplished instructor of San Francisco, to open the academy. If sufficient scholars are obtained, the academy will open on Thursday afternoon, December 5th. Those wishing to take lessons are requested to leave names at this office.

SERVICES AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday school, 10:30 a. m. Mrs. E. G. Evens, superintendent. Junior League 3 p. m., conducted by Deaconess Lindsey. Public worship, 7:30 p. m., Thanksgiving service. Preaching by pastor.

SERVICES IN GRACE CHURCH

Services will be held in Grace Church, at the corner of Grand and Spruce avenues, to-morrow, by the pastor, Rev. F. H. Church, at 11 a. m. Holy Communion. No evening service. Everybody cordially invited.

For Sale—Several eucalyptus trees, to be cut down. Apply this office. Advt.

Let Us Give Thanks

Looking backward is always provocative of thought. Sometimes remembrance brings a sigh, sometimes a laugh, but, in the main, with each succeeding year it's a better world.

We of to-day have much to be thankful for. We are afforded innumerable opportunities which our forefathers never had.

Let us all remember these things at this season of Thanksgiving.

It is the hope of this organization that Thanksgiving Day will be a day of true enjoyment for each and all of you—both in spirit and in substance.

For the Children

Czarevitch Alexis, Heir to the Russian Throne.

This handsome little boy in the uniform of a Russian hussar is the Czarevitch Alexis, heir apparent to the throne of Russia. He was born in July, 1904, so he has just passed his eighth birthday. His title in Russian is grand duke, and czarevitch means in English crown prince—that is, he will some day become czar if he outlives his father, Czar Nicholas II. Grand Duke Alexis has English blood in his veins, as his mother is a granddaughter of the late Queen Victoria of England.

Recently Alexis has been very much in the public eye because of a reported attempt on his life by nihilists. Since his birth he has been the most carefully guarded of European royal children and is constantly under the care of Cossack officers chosen for their fidelity to the royal household. Most American boys would rebel at being under constant espionage, but that is one of many disagreeable things that royalty must endure. How much better to be a free American than the mightiest ruler of a monarchy!

A Geographical Game.

Two captains are chosen from among the players, and these in turn choose their sides until the party is equally divided. For convenience it is well to seat the parties in two rows, facing each other. Chance decides which captain shall begin the game. This he does by calling the name of a city or town, and then counting ten. Before he has finished counting his opposite opponent must call out the location of the city—that is, the state or country in which it is situated.

If he answers correctly he in turn calls the name of a place, and the second player in the opposite row must locate it before ten is counted. Should any player fail to answer before ten is counted, or answer incorrectly, he or she must drop out, and when there is but one player left on either side that one is the winner.

Snap—A Card Game.

In snap the one who succeeds in getting all the cards wins the game. All the cards are dealt, face down, and piled in front of each player without being examined. The player on the dealer's left first turns up the top card of his pack, placing it in front of his own pile. The next does the same, and so on in turn, but as soon as a player turns up a card corresponding in number to the card of the predecessor one of them cries "Snap!" Whichever player succeeds in saying it first takes not only the snap card, but all the cards already turned up. The cards he wins are placed at the bottom of his pack. It is necessary to be very quick and attentive to win at this game. Cards left over from the deal may be placed in a "widow" pile to be taken by the first "snapper."

Conundrum.

When are secrets like the sails of a ship? When they get wind.

His Sum.

Two and four make six,
A sum I never mix,
And I'll tell you why:
Bobby's four years old, you see,
Baby's two—will soon be three—
And these two will just make me—
I'm six in July.
—Youth's Companion.

Too Useful to Lose.

A woman in one of the wards in the Rhode Island hospital was informed she had appendicitis and would have to be operated on at once. Much frightened, she reluctantly consented and was conveyed to the operating room. One of the doctors had commenced to administer the ether and her eyes were closing languidly when he discovered he had forgotten to inquire if she had false teeth. He quickly removed the rubber cap, and, shaking her slightly, he said, "Have you anything loose in your mouth?" Then, as he made a move to put his hand in her mouth, she opened her eyes wildly and exclaimed:

"Nothing but my tongue, doctor, and for heaven's sake don't cut that out too!"—National Magazine.

The Real Test of Strength.

Who is the strong? Not he who puts to test
His sinews with the strong and proves the best,
But he who dwells where weaklings congregate
And never lets his splendid strength abate

Who is the good? Not he who walks each day
With moral men along the high, clean way,
But he who jostles gilded sin and shame,
Yet will not sell his honor or his name.

Who is the wise? Not he who from the start
With wisdom's followers has taken part,
But he who looks in Folly's tempting eyes
And turns away, perceiving her disguise.

Who is serene? Not he who flees his kind
Some desert fastness or some cave to find,
But he who in the city's noisiest scene
Keeps calm within—he only is serene.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Making It Worth While.

A neighborhood bully had run over a smaller boy so often that the father of the latter was impelled to say to him:

"Sonny, when I was a youngster my father licked me every time any boy did. I am not going to do that with you. Instead, I'm going to give you a dollar every time you polish off that Jones boy."

For several days the youngster showed up slightly mused, but silent. At the end of the second week he put in a bill for $8. It was itemized and circumstantial and backed by a couple of vouchers in the way of teeth.—Chicago Post.

FOUNDERS OF THE CITY OF SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO

THE SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO LAND AND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY designed in its original plan to make of South San Francisco a great manufacturing center. With that object in view, it originally purchased 3500 acres of land in San Mateo County, on the bay front, five miles south of the City of San Francisco. Since the original purchase, the company has added greatly to its holdings by the purchase of large tracts of adjoining lands, giving to it a perfect environment for the complete development of a great manufacturing city.

The faith which this Company had in its enterprise has been manifest to everyone by the large expenditure it has made in the development of this property. Every foundation which goes to make a perfect condition for manufacture has been already solidly installed, and is a rapidly growing city; it is a railroad terminal; it is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and accessible to all railroads; has deep water communication; owns and operates for its industries a railroad connecting with the Southern Pacific and the water front; has electric street car service from factory to Town, and direct to San Francisco; has an Electric Light and Power Company; owns an independent Water Works, and has an abundance of fresh water for factory and house; has wharves and docks; a perfect sewerage system; a Bank and a Town Hall; and a population of over 3000 people an extensive and fine residence district, where everyone may secure lands at reasonable prices and on favorable terms, as homes for themselves and their families.

FACTORY SITES

can be obtained from the South San Francisco Land and Improvement Company on most reasonable terms.

The completion of the Bay Shore Tunnels has placed South San Francisco on the main lines of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and forty passenger trains per day connect it with the outside world.

Owing to the completion of the Dumbarton Bridge and Cutoff, South San Francisco will soon have all railroads which center in San Francisco passing through its midst.

Many industries are already established here, chief of which are the Western Meat Company, the Wool Pullery, the Soap Works, the Steiger Pottery Works, the W. P. Fuller White Lead Works, the South San Francisco Lumber and Supply Company, the Pacific Coast Steel Company, the Pacific Car and Equipment Company, the Standard Corrugated Pipe Works, and other enterprises, all of which are in operation to-day. The Meese Gottfried Machinery Company and the Enterprise Foundry of San Francisco have each recently made purchases of land, and South San Francisco is plainly destined to fulfill all that its promoters had hoped.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1912

There is a great future for this industrial city. New factories are now building, with prospects of more coming. The situation here now is a serious one. There are not sufficient four and five room houses for factory workers and their families who desire to live in this city. The attention of capitalists is called to this. There is plenty of vacant land in close proximity to the factory district that can be purchased at reasonable figures, and the demand for houses is such that they would be rented as fast as they could be built. The city now has the advantage of a $3 per month commutation rate, and if a sufficient number of modern bungalows were built many San Francisco mechanics and clerks could be induced to live here. It takes only 17 minutes to go from this city to the Third and Townsend street depot in San Francisco on Southern Pacific trains which run regularly every day in the year in all kinds of weather. In this connection, The Enterprise would suggest to local residents that they clean up about their premises, plant lawns and flowering plants in the sidewalk plots and front yards. Flowers of nearly every character grow luxuriantly in this climate, and with little effort this town of ours could be made truly a City Beautiful. There are many nice houses here that could be materially improved in appearance if their occupants would only plant a little grass in their front sidewalk spaces. Many strangers visit this city every week, and it is the duty of every resident to aid in showing them that we are a progressive people.

COUNTY DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION NEWS

"I know of four families that moved away from here on account of the high railroad rates that are now preparing to move back since the San Mateo County Developing Association won its fight against the Southern Pacific," said Superintendent Henry Spalding of Huntingham Park a few days ago in discussing the real estate situation in that district a few days ago.

"The outlook and prospects for the coming year are brighter than they have been for a long time past," he continued. "Inquiries regarding property here have greatly increased and we look for a particularly busy season next spring," he added.

The judgment of Superintendent Spalding in this regard, as to the value of the fare reductions, is backed also by the assertion of A. T. Green, one of the pioneer realty brokers in that section, who states that the new rates are one of the greatest benefits that San Bruno and Lomita Park have ever experienced.

Undue excitement has evidently existed on the Peninsula with regard to the investigations of the State Railroad Commission into the subject of telephone tolls, it being generally noised abroad that no reductions outside those made between Peninsula and transbay points were to go into effect. The development association, which has interested itself in the subject for the benefit of the county, has received word, however, that the commission's investigation is not as yet complete and that the rates here, both county and intercounty, are yet to be probed.

PROCEEDINGS OF SUPERVISORS

The county board of supervisors met in regular session in Redwood City last Monday.

Assessor Clarence D. Hayward was authorized to attend the convention of the State Assessors' Association to be held in Los Angeles on December 10th, 11th, 12th and 13th, at which all methods of assessment will be discussed with a view of adopting plans that will equalize taxes. The assessor's expenses will be paid by the board.

Coroner H. C. Plymire rendered a statement of the disposition that had been made of the effects of deceased persons.

An application was received from Martinelli & Gianni for permission to maintain a hog ranch on the Zanoni ranch in the first township near the ocean shore. A tract of land 300 by 400 feet will be occupied which is 1600 feet from the county road and so situated as not to create a nuisance.

District Attorney Swart did not object to the petition and it was laid over until next meeting for action, as required by the hog ordinance.

Washington navel oranges six inches in diameter and weighing three and one-half pounds will be exhibited at the coming Oroville orange and olive show. These oranges were grown in the yard of County Health Officer Dr. L. Q. Thompson at Gridley.

There will be on sale at the local Southern Pacific office on November 27th and 28th Thanksgiving return tickets to any station to which the fare is $10 or less at one fare and one-third, good to return until December 2d.

COUNTY NOTES

Resolutions have been adopted by the democratic county central committee endorsing James V. Swift, editor and proprietor of the Redwood City Democrat, for the position of postmaster for Redwood City.

H. C. Rodgers, the republican candidate for supervisor from the first township, started a contest on November 15th, against Jas. T. Casey, the present supervisor from that district. At the recent election Casey received 1183 votes against 1141 by Rodgers charging that there was misconduct on the part of the judges and illegal counting and voting in all of the precincts. H. M. Owens, W. W. Bedford and Green, Humphreys & Green are acting as Rodgers' attorneys. Judge George H. Buck set November 25th as the date for the hearing of the contest.

The following candidates at the late election have filed their campaign expenses as follows: P. H. McEvoy spent the sum of $105 in making the canvass for supervisor in the third township. The money was expended for printing, putting up cards, buggy hire, etc. Joseph M. Francis spent $29 for making a campaign for supervisor in the fourth township, although he had no opponent, being endorsed by all parties. John MacBain spent the sum of $82 for making a successful campaign for supervisor of the third township. H. C. Rodgers expended the sum of $106.30 for making a run for supervisor in the first township.

The marriage of Miss Lorine Knowles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Knowles of San Jose, and John D. Bromfield, prominent young clubman of San Mateo and San Francisco, whose engagement was recently announced, will take place quietly at the home of the bride's parents on Thanksgiving day. The bride is a dashing blonde, still in her teens. The couple first met at a Mardi Gras ball held in San Jose and it was a cause of love at first sight. Bromfield is a member of the San Mateo Polo Club of Hillsborough, the Peninsula Club of San Mateo and the Press Club. He is a fraternity man, having attended the State University. At present he is the Peninsula correspondent to the San Francisco Call and is very popular in newspaper circles.

AUNT DELIA'S MENU FOR THANKSGIVING.

Begins With Beef Soup and Ends With Cream Peppermints; Of Course, Pie.

Miss Della C. Torrey of Milbury, Mass., President Taft's Aunt Della, gave her ideas as to the making of a good old-fashioned New England Thanksgiving dinner. Here is her Thanksgiving menu:

Beef Soup.
Roast Turkey, Cranberry Sauce.
Lettuce and Tomato Salad.
PIE.
Ice Cream.
Fruits, Nuts, Raisins.
Tea or Coffee.

Old-Fashioned Cream Peppermints. Capitalizing PIE was Miss Torrey's own idea. She loves pie, and if report is true, so does her nephew. It is likely the President will sit down to just such a meal, as Miss Torrey said she expects him to dine with her on Thanksgiving Day.

Said Miss Torrey: "My notion is that the Thanksgiving dinner should begin with appetizing beef soup, and then there should be a fat roast turkey, or two turkeys, according to the size of the company, provided turkeys are not 33 cents a pound.

"Then there are the cranberry sauce, a real New England brand of chicken pie, a tomato and lettuce salad, and pie, with a capital P. As to whether apple or mince is preferable, I personally think mince is the correct brand for Thanksgiving, because, you see, I can make better mince pies than apple pies, though people don't seem to know it.

"And after the PIE, with capital letters, we should have ice cream, fruit, nuts and raisins, tea or coffee, and you mustn't forget the old fashioned cream peppermints."

The correspondent of the Morning Post with the Montenegrins describes an act of heroism by a priest who led the soldiers in battle when their commander was killed. This occurred when an unsuccessful attempt by the Turks to storm a position held by the Montenegrins in the valley of the Boyana River was made.

ABDULLAH PASHA.

ARMISTICE TO DISCUSS TERMS OF PEACE.

Tension Between Serbia and Austria Has Become Serious.

Bulgaria has nominated the commander in chief of the army at Tchatalja to negotiate the armistice. The negotiations will be conducted at Hadenkeul, whither Turkey will send her delegates.

Bulgaria's conditions for agreeing to an armistice were transmitted to Constantinople. They were accompanied by Bulgaria's main conditions for a conclusion of peace, the principal stipulation of which permits Turkey to retain the City of Constantinople and a strip of coast territory in Europe.

The reply sent to the dispatch from the Grand Vizier to King Ferdinand of Bulgaria says:

"The Bulgarian Government, after agreement with the allied Cabinets of Serbia, Montenegro and Greece, informs the Porte that plenipotentiaries have been appointed with instruction to arrange with the commander in chief of the Turkish armies the conditions of an armistice and subsequently to proceed to the conclusion of peace."

It is understood that the terms of the allies for an armistice are moderate and that Turkey may save Constantinople if she accepts them.

Respecting Albania, it is said in well-informed quarters that the Balkan league probably will not object to that country remaining under the suzerainty of the Sultan, and that the powers will acquiesce in this.

The Porte will appoint plenipotentiaries to meet the Bulgarian plenipotentiaries with regard to an armistice.

By a vote of six to one both issues of harbor bonds were authorized at the election in Richmond, and the news that the projects had met with the favor of the voters was greeted by a celebration in which bonfires and speeches were features.

BARONET MAY SAIL THE GOLDEN GATE.

J. D. Spreckels Invites
Sir Thomas to be Guest.

Sir Thomas Lipton has a chance to sail the broad bosom of the Pacific on a crack yacht, and when he leaves San Francisco he will likely leave by way of the Golden Gate. John D. Spreckels invited Sir Thomas to be his yacht guest from San Francisco to San Diego, and if the Baronet has sufficient time at his disposal he will make the trip.

Sir Thomas stated that while he would like to make the trip on the Pacific, he did not know that he had time to do so. He has never sailed in California waters, and is longing for the chance, as he expressed it. He could give no definite answer as to whether he would be able to sail to San Diego or not, but if it is possible for him to make the trip, he will do so, he says.

Sir Thomas Lipton, besides being an enthusiastic yachtsman, merchant, hobbler with royalty and friend of the common people, is also an enthusiastic hydroplane sportsman. He has made several flights over Southampton himself, and guests of his on the Erin have made trips in the machine that is half bird and half fish.

The Duchess of Westminster, the first lady in England, made a flight in a hydroplane from the Erin while she was guest of Sir Thomas, and enjoyed the trip very much. Miss Violet Asquith, daughter of England's Premier, is a fair daughter of Great Britain who flew from the same spot, and still others of the fair sex of Britain have made the flights when they were Sir Thomas' guests.

"The hydroplane is very safe," said Sir Thomas, in speaking of this sport to a group of friends. "You are always over the water, and if you do get into trouble the water is softer than the earth to strike."

"Mrs. Grahame-White, formerly Miss Taylor of America, is one of the most daring women whom I have ever seen in the air. She flies everywhere with her husband."

"I have offered a prize for a hydroplane flight from Southampton to Paris. The machines must follow the estuary to the sea, cross the channel and then go to Paris by following the River Seine. They must be at all times over the water."

SMART VELVET HATS

Two hats of modish shape are shown here. Both are the kind that commend themselves to the woman who does not care for feather trimmings. One model has a simulated wing made of velvet and satin wired to stand out over the side of the hat. The crown is covered with velvet, the brim being felt trimmed with a band of velvet. The other hat is of dark blue velvet, the shape being one of the popular colonials. It is trimmed with a fancy silk ornament.

PLENTY OF TURKEYS IN CALIFORNIA NOW.

Turkeys will be plentiful in the markets of Northern California this year. The prices now range from eighteen to twenty-three cents, live weight, and thirty cents dressed, but they will undoubtedly raise before Thanksgiving.

Turkey-raisers will not depend upon commission houses this year to dispose of their products. They have had disastrous experience with the middleman, and last year the buyers in this section were caught with a large number of birds on their hands when the market collapsed and commission houses in San Francisco refused to take birds ordered earlier in the season.

SEVEN FALL BEFORE GUN OF A THIEF

Wounds Five Persons,
Kills Girl and Himself.

A man and a woman stood in a small room of a Raines Law hotel in the Bronx and deliberately shot down three detectives and two other men who were trying to place the pair under arrest.

After nearly emptying the eleven shots in a large automatic revolver, re-enforced by shots from an ordinary revolver in the hands of his woman companion, and probably fatally wounding four of those whom he shot, the man shot and killed the woman and then put a bullet through his own head, dying instantly.

This is the outline of one of the most remarkable shooting affrays the detectives of this city have run into, so far as the conflicting stories of the shooting had been sifted tonight.

The dead man is known by several names, having registered at the hotel as Joseph Vogel. The police declare he is a Pole named Pheres Doragyeski. The woman with him had registered as Lottie Vogel. Vogel was 48 years old and the woman about 25.

Suspected of Robbery.

The detectives were on the trail of the pair, suspecting them of having been accomplices in a diamond robbery for which Sophie Beckendorf, a domestic, had been held for the Grand Jury. The woman who had lost the jewels traced the girl to Vogel's house and told the detectives of her discovery. After a taxicab chase today, the detectives learned that the Vogels had sought lodging at the Elmsmere Hotel.

Unless the plan to revise the entire tariff law in a single bill is adopted, it is believed Democratic leaders will urge the calling of the special session before April 15. That date was set by President-elect Wilson as the latest upon which he would assemble the new Congress. Democrats here believe the new House can begin work in March, soon after the present administration retires from power, and be organized and ready for tariff legislation early in April.

WILL SCRIBBLED IN A NOTEBOOK IS LEGAL

Court Decides in Favor of Widow in Big Lodi Estate.

In the issuance of letters testamentary to Mrs. Frances Moran, all possibilities of a contest over the estate of Joseph T. Moran, a wealthy Lodi vineyardist, ended. Of the two wills filed, the latter one was admitted to probate, although it lacked formal execution. The previous instrument, which was formerly prepared by an attorney and committed to the care of Superior Judge Joseph J. Trabucco of Mariposa County, left to Louise M. Cathey, a friend of the testator, one-half of the property. The estate exceeds $10,000 in value.

Following Moran's death, several months ago, a second will was found, scribbled in a notebook. It bore the date of June 28, 1912, while the previous one was executed late in 1904. The testator declares in the later will that none of the big estate belonged to him individually, it having been deeded to him by his wife for reasons not stated, and that he had no right to give it to anybody. He declared that he had wronged his wife, and disclaimed all ownership to the property.

SUFFRAGETTE ARMY ENDS 400-MILE HIKE.

Reaches London From Edinburgh in Exactly Five Weeks.

The suffragette army which started from Edinburgh on October 12 completed its 400-mile tramp to London, having taken exactly five weeks to do the journey. Under the leadership of Mrs. Du Pont Blanche, who traveled on horseback, they went immediately to the Prime Minister's residence, on Downing street, and presented their petition demanding suffrage for women.

Premier Asquith, profiting from his experience of previous meetings with the vote-seeking women, had retired to the country for the week-end. His secretary, however, accepted the document, and there was no untoward incident.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE STATION

Orderly Approach Will Attract
Visitors to Town.

CASE OF UPPER MONTCLAIR.

Through the Energetic Work of a Society of Well Wishing Citizens the New Jersey Community Has Pleasing and Attractive Railway Depot.

It has been well said that "for perfectly obvious reasons it is important that every city, town and village should do all that is possible to insure convenience, orderliness and a certain type of beauty in and about its railway approaches." Much can be accomplished at small expense and with minimum labor when there is intelligent co-operation, says the American City.

The evolution of the railway station from unsightliness to a thing of beauty is almost the work of the present generation. In the early days this indispensable adjunct was constructed simply for use, with never a thought of making it attractive. The railway station was simply a place to get on and off the trains scheduled to stop at that point. For years the depot of one of the greatest lines in this country, at a state capital, was always referred to as "the cow shed." It was a rickety building, which had been added to by piecemeal as necessity arose, unpainted, with rough floor, leaky roof and without a claim to comeliness.

The spirit of improvement, however, was broadening and spreading over the land. Here and there the agent at a way station, or more probably his wife, added a rosebush or wisp of vegetation or with patient irrigation transformed the plot of scrawny, withered grass into a velvety green.

The modern railway station not only serves its original purpose, but, if properly kept, makes a good first impression on the outsider. As a central point the stranger considers it an index of the ideals of the people, a type to which the whole appearance of the place should conform. And how restful it is for the tired business man or wearied shopper, coming from the blistering, dust choking city, to catch a grateful breath of coolness under the overarching shade and feel that this is home in the truest sense of the word.

That such results are within the reach of every community has been strikingly shown at Upper Montclair, N. J. In the expression of the civic spirit of this town, officially the First ward of Montclair, one of the most effective agencies is the Mountain society. Dependent wholly upon the voluntary support of the citizens themselves, which support has always been generously given, it has toiled with energy, judgment and unselfish purpose.

The Mountain society was quick to see that the only means of reaching the highest attainment in beautifying the approach to the town was by cordial co-operation with the railway company, upon which the growth of the community largely depends. The corporation promptly met the society halfway, and together the two strove, with the result that this part of the town is today a pleasure to the eye.

A charming booklet, written by a citizen of Montclair, not an officer of the Mountain society, gives expression to this spirit and contains a number of views of the railway station and its surroundings.

Just over the bank of the brook on the east side a screen of vines hides an unsightly spot otherwise uncontrollable. The vines, from the green of early spring to the scarlet of autumn, form an effective shield, and the poplar trees recently planted will supplement and augment it. On the avenue north of the grounds a tunnel of green is formed by the drooping limbs that reach to the waters of the brook flowing here from under the bridge across the avenue, winding between iris grown banks through the upper end of the grounds, thence under the railroad embankment and reappearing in the easterly side.

The grounds back of the station have for many years been cared for by the Mountain society, the railroad lending aid in grading and furnishing soil and labor. At one time, years ago, this parklike space almost came into the possession of the society for public park use.

THE DEMAND FOR AMUSEMENT.

Man living in primitive times was in direct contact with nature. He raised his own food, made his own clothes and built his own house. He had many chances of varying his occupation throughout the day. All his work was educational. He had the stimulus of seeing a piece of work begun and ended and of enjoying the fruits thereof. All this is in marked contrast with the life of the average factory worker. All those qualities which one admires most in a man are deadened when he is compelled to stand day after day and week after week before a huge machine of which he becomes but a part.

It is during leisure rather than during work time that character is formed. The basis of character is the will, and at no time does this function of the mind have so free a scope as during recreation. It is then that all restraint is removed and we do as we will. The excellent effect of recreation on character is seen in children at play. Often for the first time they learn the meaning of self restraint. They learn the significance of co-operation and group action in those games requiring team work. At play the cheat is quickly discovered and punished with ostracism by his fellows. Such object lessons in the fundamentals of morality are invaluable in the normal development of any child. After all, character is acquired from the environment and not from the blood. Amusement is gaining recognition as a force as potent as formal instruction.—Frank D. Watson in "Charities and the Commons."

TOWN SELLS CEMENT WALK FOR ADVERTISING

Authorities of Hope, Ark., Have Novel Scheme.

Wishing to extend a cement sidewalk a distance of three or four blocks to the new fair ground and having no fund for the purpose, the town of Hope, Ark., constructed the extension by selling each outlined block of it as advertising space. A plat was made of the walk, showing it divided into numbered squares. A few of the squares were retained on which to place a short history of the town, giving names of prominent men, various industries, population at different dates and the names of county officers at the time, and the remainder were sold for advertising.

In most cases the advertising was done by forming the letters in the top coat before the final set, but a few of the advertisers furnished aluminium letters and numerals about three inches high. Although the sidewalk has now been laid for some time, the outlines of the letters are said to be as when first made.

According to a Russian correspondent who is at Constantinople, Zekie, eldest daughter of Abdul Hamid, the former Turkish Sultan, and who was very patriotic, was overcome with despair on account of her country's disasters and dramatically committed suicide in the garden of her magnificent palace at Abusheir.

WHY THE STREETS SHOULD ALWAYS BE KEPT CLEAN

Treat the Town as We Would Our Own Bodies.

The demand for good street cleaning methods is usually predicated upon the supposed menace to health which exists where such methods are lacking. While in the dirt there are to be found the germs of about every known disease, nature has made ample provision for the resistance of the attack which these germs make upon the delicate membranes upon which they are caught when spread by the wind, and because people are not sickly when lax conditions of cleaning exist they are too liable to be satisfied with poor methods. It is better to have clean streets because we want to be clean, just as it is well to have a clean body on account of the refreshing feeling and elevating mental condition. Surroundings have so much to do with the formation of character and habits that the children at least are entitled to the good bringing up that cleanly conditions compel, and the less fortunate citizen who uses the street for recreation is entitled to the best possible service. The streets, after all, are but the hallways of the great municipal house, and municipal householders should find pleasure in keeping them as does the competent housewife.—American City.

HOME.

Home is the cornerstone of our government, the pillar of our civilization. When the masses learn that every time that a dollar is sent away from the home it injures it just so much, robs it of so much comfort, takes away just so much power for good, then the foreign houses that are taking trade from cities and towns will receive less patronage.

FOR THE HOME MERCHANT.

Follow the Tactics of the Catalogue Houses.

Much has been written about the subtle influence of the big four pound catalogues sent broadcast over the land by the houses located in the big cities which, strange to say, refuse to sell goods to the residents of the cities in which they are located.

There is no mysterious element in these bulky paper books, writes D. M. Carr. From cover to cover they are filled with pictures and with prices and descriptions of goods. The power of printer's ink is the only magnet, and this magnet can be used by merchants everywhere. The publishers of these great catalogues do business running well up toward the fifty millions yearly. All their success has been in the ink they use and the way they use it.

Because these concerns receive patronage that should go to the home merchant it is the home merchant's fault, Mr. Carr argues. The home merchant neglects to do just what the houses which publish the big catalogues do. He may not have the money to get out such a great list, neither the means of carrying great stocks of goods. Yet he possesses all the means necessary to gain the trade that goes to these great concerns. He can buy goods just as low, has less expense, and, while the big catalogue goes to a customer only once in a year or two, through the medium of the local newspaper the merchant can go to all the people of the community once a week and at the lowest expense.

A Culinary Tragedy.

A lady who lives on Greenwood avenue gave a dinner recently. There were twelve at the table. One of the courses consisted of soft shell crabs.

STARTLED THE GUESTS.

A guest who was fond of this delicacy and who allowed his appetite to get the better of his breeding asked for a second crab. Now, it happened that the market man had delivered only thirteen crabs, and on the evening of the dinner there was a nurse in the house who was being served upstairs. The thirteenth crab had gone to her.

The butler, though much astonished at the request of the guest for a second crab, walked apparently unperturbed out of the dining room, then bolted up the back stairs, burst into the room occupied by the nurse, gave a hasty glance at the tray, shouted, "Thunderation—she has eaten the crab!" and rushed downstairs again. Not more than a minute later the frightened nurse startled the guests by flying into the dining room, crying, "What was the matter with the crab?"—Chicago Tribune.

Shine Just Where You Are.
Don't waste your time in longing
For bright, impossible things.
Don't sit supinely yearning
For the swiftness of wings.
Don't spurn to be a rushlight
Because you are not a star.
But brighten some bit of darkness
By shining just where you are.

There is need of the tiniest candle
As well as the garish sun.
The humblest deed is ennobled
When it is worthily done.
You may never be called to brighten
The darkened regions afar,
So fill for the day your mission
By shining just where you are.
—John Hay.

A Lesson in German.

A story is going the rounds about a rather inexperienced theatrical manager who went over to Germany recently to see if there were any good musical plays to be had. He stayed one night in Frankfurt, and on glancing through the theatrical advertisements he saw, under the heading of the opera house, in large letters, "Geschlossen."

"What sort of business are they doing at the opera house?" he asked an American friend cautiously.

The friend looked at him curiously, thought for a minute and then replied, "I hear they are turning people away."

The manager dashed off to the opera house to book a seat, and as he drew near he saw that the place was plastered with announcements of "Geschlossen," and he became quite excited.

But he knows now that "geschlossen" is not the name of a new opera, but simply the German for "closed."

Made a Start Anyhow.

Ghosts and weird apparitions which were said to appear in an empty house were not an inducement to possible tenants, so the agent had it elaborately done up and decorated and by the way of tempting bait had some expensive gas fittings put in the house. The next week he heard that some bold man had been after the house. His heart leaped with hope and expectation, and he rushed off in frantic excitement to the housekeeper of the haunted grange.

"This is splendid!" he gasped. "Some one has taken the house, hasn't he?"
"I don't know, sir, I'm sure. Perhaps he'll come back for the house, but he's taken all the gas fittings."—St. Paul Dispatch.

How the Red Pursuers Increased.

One day while the late Senator Hearst, father of William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, was a young man and yet had his fortune to make he and a few companions were on a prospecting tour. Along in the afternoon they sighted a band of Indians, and as in those days all Indians were hostile Mr. Hearst and his friends naturally wanted to get away from there. All the prospectors except the future senator were mounted on horses. Mr. Hearst was on a retired army mule and soon found himself in the rear.

The Indians were on his trail, and things began to look serious when he called out to his rapidly disappearing companions: "Hold on, boys; there's only a few of them. We needn't be afraid."

Just then the mule scented the approaching Indians and with a wild snort started out with a gallop that soon left the horsemen far behind. When Hearst was about a quarter of a mile in advance he turned in his saddle and yelled at the top of his voice:

"Hurry up, boys; you'll get scalped. There's more than a hundred of them."
—Kansas City Star.

After William Jennings Bryan had courted the beautiful Mary Baird for what he considered a sufficient length of time the commoner, then a struggling young lawyer, concluded to put the vital question to the father of the future Mrs. Bryan. William, after finally downing the lump in his throat, sought refuge in the Scriptures.

"Mr. Baird, I have been reading proverbs a good deal lately," said Mr. Bryan, "and I find that Solomon says,

'Whoso findeth a wife findeth a good thing and obtaineth favor of the Lord.'"

Father Baird, being somewhat of a Bible scholar himself, replied, "Yes, I believe Solomon did say that, but Paul suggests that, while he that marrieth doeth well, he that marrieth not doeth better."

Bryan, who never has been at a loss for an answer in his spectacular life, quickly replied, "Solomon would be the better authority upon this point because Paul was never married, while Solomon had a number of wives."

Whereupon Father Baird capitulated.

How He Won Her

A Story Illustrating a Feminine Foible

By ARTHUR BURLEIGH

General Le Verrier told this story at dinner in his own house to his friend, M. Chauveteau:

"I entered the army at the opening of the war of 1870, enlisting in an infantry regiment. My father was a plain farmer not far from Fontainebleau, and I was among a people who were very much excited over the war and intent upon the soldiers who were being recruited in their midst. I was very much in love with a girl of seventeen who smiled sweetly upon me, especially after I had enlisted to fight the Prussians. I joined the Forty-third, whose uniform was the simple baggy red trousers and blue coat of the common infantry soldier, and soon had occasion to regret that I had not joined a more showy corps, for when a recruiting officer for the Twelfth cuirassiers came along a rival of mine for my girl's favors, Francois Duval, enlisted in that corps and when uniformed was resplendent in white riding breeches, high boots, a shining metal cuirassier and helmet. My sweetheart—Clochette was her name—when next she passed me had just seen Francois riding along the road decked out in all his finery. I saw an expression of disappointment on her face the moment she looked at commonplace myself.

"Nor was this all. The very next day I saw her walking beside my rival, seemingly dazzled by his splendor. As soon as I could obtain leave I went to see her and received a very cool reception.

"I at once put in an application to be transferred to the lancers, whose uniform is quite as beautiful as the cuirassiers'. But of course no attention was paid to such a request, and I was doomed to continually appear before the girl I loved in the cheap uniform of an infantryman. I wished we would be marched at once to the war, that I might betake myself and my red breeches away where Clochette would see neither. But the regiments in our vicinity were not filled up for some time, and the people—principally the girls—were constantly gazing at us. And I noticed that those corps which wore the showiest uniforms gathered the biggest crowds. Every time I saw Clochette go by me with my rival, looking up at him as though he was a statue of Jupiter, I wished I could decorate myself with gold lace and spangles.

"IN A MOMENT SHE WAS MARCHING BESIDE ME."

"Well, we got away in time and were marched to the frontier. We who came from about Fontainebleau were in the same army and fought the Prussians side by side. I saw Duval's regiment occasionally making a charge, and it was magnificent. I could not blame any girl for preferring one of these fellows in shining breastplate and helmet, mounted on a splendid horse wildly galloping against the enemy, to a miserable infantryman trudging along on foot in red trousers and with a cheap pompon in his hat no bigger than a boy's rubber ball. Once I saw Duval himself riding in the ranks, and he saw me, looking down upon me as the general of an army would look upon a drummer boy. "However, I had one advantage that all soldiers do not possess. I was a born fighter. Most of us are good for something, and fighting was my redeeming quality. I have never been good for anything else. At Gravelotte a body of Prussians came down on us in such superior numbers as to overpower our regiment, which was the tip of the left wing. Within five minutes the colonel, lieutenant colonel and major were killed, besides many of the line officers. Our fellows were starting to run, leaving the flank exposed so that the Prussians could slip in right behind the line, which was a mile long. Either a rout or the capture of most of this line was imminent. The cuirassiers were driven back, and I caught sight of my rival galloping to the rear. It was a critical moment, like the first few drops of water trickling through a long hole in a dam which if not stopped, will let loose a frightful flood. It was I who plugged the hole. Taking up the colors, which were being trampled on the ground, I held them aloft and cried out:

"Comrades, reform on your flag!" "Immediately they began to reform as I directed at an angle with the next regiment on our right, so that instead of having the Prussians on our flank we faced them. The general of our division, seeing the situation, ordered a regiment from an unexposed point to support us, and they came in our rear at a double quick. The danger was averted. Other corps kept coming to that part of the field, and we were strong as adamant. After the fight my general sent for me and said:

"You are advanced to the rank of major and will assume command of your regiment at once. Go and get off the uniform of a private and put on that of a field officer."

"Do you know what I was thinking about when he said that? I was wishing my reward had brought me into the ranks of the lancers that I might don a showy uniform with which to win back Clochette. However, I could only feel pleased that I should at least equal my rival by being mounted, and, though my uniform would be much the same as before, it would be of finer texture and more highly decorated.

"As you know, we met with one disaster after another, and at last those of us who were not killed or captured were driven back across our country, the Prussians following us. I had been advanced to the rank of general of brigade. I was very young for such a position—about twenty-one; but, as I have said, I was a born fighter and nothing else. I couldn't understand why so many of my comrades remained in the ranks while I had been so speedily advanced. I didn't value my promotion, because with all the gewgaws worn by a general of brigade I did not consider him a bird of such fine plumage as a private of cuirassiers, nor would Clochette.

"As luck would have it, we approached Paris through the region from which we had marched to the war, and the worst of it was that the Twelfth cuirassiers were returning by the same route. I still loved Clochette. You know, the struggle was very brief and there had been no change in me as the man—only as the soldier. I knew as we marched through my native village the country people would line the way looking at us and Clochette would be among them. Though I would ride at the head of my brigade, with Clochette I would not count for as much as Duval in his splendor of a private of cuirassiers. Something must be done. I thought out a plan on which I acted, and you are the first man to learn of it.

"The evening before we were to pass through Fontainebleau I rode over to the headquarters of General Berlier of the Eighteenth corps and told him that I wished to march through the village with his command, in which I was not known. I told him my secret and my experience, at which he laughed heartily. Then I asked him to permit me to march past my neighbors at the head of one of the bands of his command as drum major. When I explained my reason he embraced me, remarked that 'all the world loves a lover,' said my plan was admirable and assured me that in the showy uniform of a drum major I would certainly win my sweetheart.

"The leader of the band of the Fifty-third," he said, 'wears the most showy uniform of any drum major, and you shall take his place.'

"He sent an orderly for this man, who reported at once, and I was pleased to see that, though he was tall, I was nearly his height. He was ordered to send his uniform to my headquarters and to turn over the leadership of his band the next day to me.

"Much had happened since we had marched away that our friends at home knew little or nothing about. No one knew of my advancement. When we marched through the town girls joined their fathers, their brothers and their lovers, marching hand in hand with them. I had placed myself at the head of the Fifty-third band and looked magnificent in my splendid uniform. While marching through the town, twirling my baton high above my head, I espied Clochette among the throng beside the road. She was looking at me admiringly. I smiled at her. She knew me and in another moment was marching beside me.

"I had won. And how? By yielding to a womanly fancy for display. A more intelligent girl would have preferred me as general but Clochette was an embodiment of feminine simplicity. As we marched along side by side, I throwing my staff high in the air, she was more proud of me and herself as my girl than she would have been reflecting the glory of a marshal of France."

The speaker having come to the end of his story looked at his wife, sitting at the other end of the table, and said:

"My dear, have I told the story correctly?"

"Perfectly so far as your own folly is concerned."

"Did you not march beside me when I was masquerading as a drum major, and that after giving my rival a preference?"

"I did. That was my folly. It may be permissible for you to give M. Chauveteau your feelings, but only I can express mine."

"Well, then, let us have them."

"I married you because you loved me so well as to make a fool of yourself on my account."

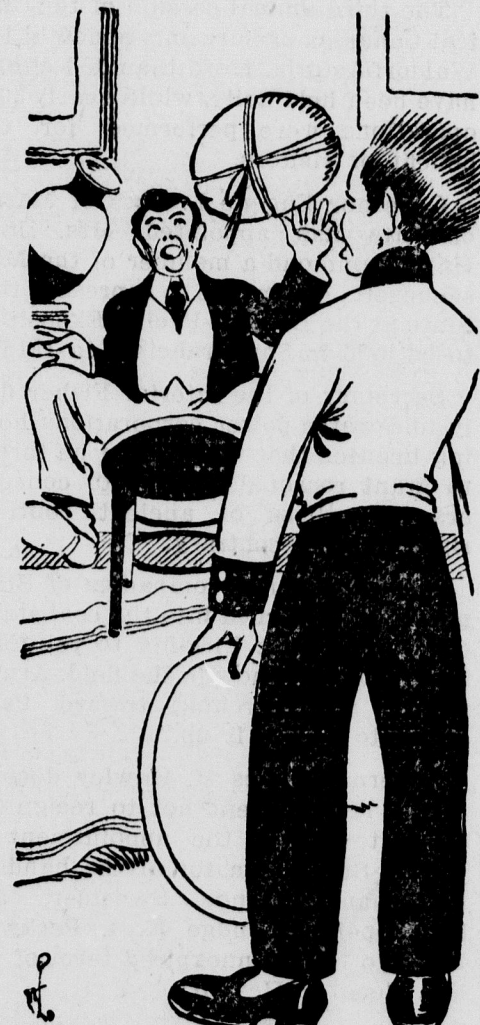

With a burst of laughter the men rose from the table.

THE CENTER OF THE STAGE.

Dixey Couldn't Bear to Have His Old Friend Mann Lose It.

When Henry Dixey and I were playing in the same company several years ago, says Louis Mann, he would frequently accuse me of scheming to secure the center of the stage, whether the comedy situation called for my being in that much coveted spot or otherwise.

We had many warm arguments on the subject, and years afterward, when we were separated, Dixey reminded me of our old difference of opinion regarding "the center" in a very original way. Some years ago I was playing an engagement in the Temple theater at Philadelphia, and Dixey was appearing in one of the other houses. During the run of the opera in which I appeared the Temple was destroyed by fire, which put the company out of work in the middle of the season.

I was sitting in my room after the fire in a most despondent mood when the bellboy entered with a large, flat, circular package on a tray. I lifted it, but dropped the bundle instantly with a smart of pain. It was red-hot. I told the boy to cut the cord from the heavy wrapping paper, when, to my surprise, a circular block of wood, charred and smoking, fell out. Pinned in the folds of the heavy wrapping paper, yet slightly charred, was a letter which said:

My Dear Louis—At the risk of my life I climbed through the flaming ruins of the Temple theater and saved for you the "center of the stage."

DIXEY.

An Irishman entered a ticket office one day and inquired what the fare was to Chicago.

"Ten dollars," said the clerk. "But," he added, "we are making a special rate. By buying a round trip ticket you can get it for $15."

The Irishman looked puzzled. "A round trip?"

"Yes," said the clerk, "a round trip to Chicago and back."

"Well," said Pat, "what do I want to come back for when I am already here?"—Everybody's Magazine.

DOMESTIC INFELICITY.

One Unhappy Cause of the Marital Estate Explained.

It is undoubtedly a fact that most married people say things to each other that they would not dare say to the cook, who would give notice and leave, and they would not dream of saying to a casual acquaintance.

Marriage is life with the polish rubbed off in a good many cases. It is the one relation in the world in which most men and women feel that they can dispense with all the amenities of civilization and in which they have the courage of their rudeness.

Most human beings have no idea of the number of faults they possess nor how they look to others until they hear the litany of their shortcomings chanted with relentless candor by their husbands or wives.

Other people laugh long and lustily at your pet story. Your wife or your husband feels that it is good for you to know that they have heard it at least fifty times and that your power as a conversationalist doesn't amount to much.

Other people praise your vivacity. Your husband feels free to tell you not to make a fool of yourself by acting like a schoolgirl when you are closing on to forty; that dignity and sweetness and silence are what you should cultivate; that you talk too much, anyhow, and it is getting to be a bore. He thinks these things are good for you to know.

Too often husbands and wives use each other to dash out on each other all the ill temper and irritability in their systems—irritability and ill temper that they dare not show to their customers or their servants.

It is usually husbands and wives that tell each other things that the other is not particularly anxious to know—that they are trying to blind themselves to.

And there are people who speculate about the cause of the many cases of domestic infelicity.

ORDINANCE NO. 60.

An Ordinance Imposing a License Upon Any Show, Exhibition or Performance Given Under a Canvass or Cloth Covering, or in Any Enclosure Without a Covering, and Upon Chutes, Toboggan Slides, Museums, Panoramata, and Cyclorama, Shooting Galleries, Knife Racks, Doll Racks and Upon All Devices Operated for the Purpose of Testing Human Skill or Strength.

The Board of Trustees of the City of South San Francisco do ordain as follows:

Section 1. Every person, firm or corporation maintaining or conducting any show, exhibition or performance given under a canvass or cloth covering, or in any enclosure without a covering, for which an admission fee is charged, shall pay a license tax of five (5) dollars per day.

Section 2. Every person, firm or corporation maintaining or conducting any shooting gallery or range, doll rack, knife rack, or any device operated for the purpose of testing human skill or strength, for the use of which a fee or sum of money is charged, shall pay a license tax of one (1) dollar per day.

Section 3. Every person, firm or corporation maintaining or conducting any revolving wheel, chute, toboggan slide, merry-go-round or swing or other mechanical contrivances where a fee or sum of money is charged to carry persons thereon shall pay a license tax of five (5) dollars for the first day of the continuance of the license issued hereunder and two and one half (2½) dollars per day for each day thereafter.

Section 4. Every person, firm or corporation maintaining or conducting any museum, panorama, or cyclorama where an admission fee is charged, shall pay a license tax of two (2) dollars per day.

Section 5. Every astrologer, fortune-teller, medium or clairvoyant shall pay a license tax of twenty-five (25) dollars per month.

Section 6. All license tax imposed under this ordinance shall be payable in advance to the Marshal of the City of South San Francisco. Each license provided for in this ordinance shall be designated "Amusement License" and shall be issued by the City Clerk upon the payment of the license tax. All such licenses shall be issued, accepted and held subject to the pleasure of the Board of Trustees of the City of South San Francisco, and may be revoked by said Board of Trustees, or by a majority of said Board, at any time, for such cause as to said Board, or a majority thereof, shall upon investigation seem sufficient. Every license shall contain as a part thereof the following stipulation, to-wit: "This license is hereby received and accepted subject to all the terms and conditions of Ordinance No. 60, of the City of South San Francisco, under which it is issued." Said stipulation must be signed by the person, firm or corporation named in such license before any business is authorized to be done under said license.

Section 7. Every person who shall commence or engage in any business, whether as principal, agent, clerk, solicitor or otherwise, for the maintaining or conducting of which a license is required under any of the provisions of this ordinance without first obtaining such license, or who shall otherwise violate any provision of this ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty (50) dollars, and not exceeding three hundred (300) dollars, or by imprisonment for a period not exceeding three (3) months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 8. The Marshal and Clerk of the City of South San Francisco shall each receive for his respective services in issuing licenses and collecting the license tax herein provided for the sum of fifty (50) cents for each license issued, which amounts shall be paid by the person, firm or corporation named in such license.

Section 9. This ordinance shall be published once in "The Enterprise," a weekly newspaper printed, published and circulated in the City of South San Francisco, and shall take effect and be in force from and after the date of its passage.

Introduced this 4th day of November, 1912.

Passed and adopted as an ordinance of the City of South San Francisco at a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the City of South San Francisco this 18th day of November, 1912, by the following vote:

Ayes, Trustees G. W. Holston, T. L. Hickey, J. H. Kelley, J. C. McGovern and F. A. Cunningham.

IMPROVEMENT MOTTOES.

The amount of good work that can be accomplished by a split log drag is astonishing and must be seen before believed.

If a community can't have a "good" road it should have the best road possible. Anything is better than a "bad" road.

The beneficent effects of good roads flow to the city and the hamlet as well as to the farmer. They walk hand in hand in community of interest, and surely it is a picture beautiful to look upon and sound at the core.

Good roads are indispensable to our growth and progress, and we must not falter or wait to provide for them.

SYSTEMATIC TEACHING OF HYGIENE IS NECESSARY

Individual Attention to Child's Habits Will Teach Cleanliness.

Systematic instruction in the principles of hygiene is necessary to keep pupils from becoming lost in the multitude of details. This instruction should be founded on a solid knowledge of the structure and functions of the different organs of the body and of the principles governing metabolism and microbic infection. As long as the people of countries like the United States persistently follow hygienic fads and fail to discriminate between ardent quacks and reputable medical practitioners it is an exceedingly shortsighted practicality that desires to exclude from our school courses in hygiene those fundamentals of anatomy, physiology and bacteriology which throw the broad guiding lines through the maze of hygienic practice.

Individual attention should be given to the hygienic habits of the child. Toothbrush clubs, fresh air clubs and other organized hygienic efforts are very valuable in fixing correct living habits. Much can be done to develop a right attitude toward hygienic questions and to fix the habit of properly regulating local environment by good hygienic conditions in the schoolroom and in the home.

The causes of sickness and the method of preventing it should be taught in spite of the objections of those who insist that it is wrong to instill into the childish mind ideas of disease. It is not the teaching of hygiene in schools, but the presence of illness and death in the homes, that gives sensitive children morbid ideas of disease and death.—From Address by Professor John W. Ritchie at Hygiene Congress.

ATTRACT YOUR CUSTOMERS.

Keep the Dollars at Home by Proper Display of Goods.

The way to keep the boys and girls at home is to make home attractive to them. The way to keep dollars at home is to make home attractive to the dollars. There is no other way.

Our local merchants should make their trade attractive. This means that they should play up their goods, just as a newspaper plays up a story. Goods can be played up in many ways. Advertising in the local paper and displaying in the store window are two good ways. Another good way is to make the store attractive inside and outside.

Another is to convince customers that they are getting honest values. Still another is to have the thing the customer wants, make him feel that you are trying to serve him and accommodate him and not merely trying to benefit yourself. Yet another and most important of all is to organize for the betterment of the community, arouse the public spirit and local pride and educate the people in the inestimable benefit to everybody of building up their own town and their own neighborhood.

A Home Trade Song.

Your support you should give
To the place where you live,
And you ought to help the old town grow.
'Tis the place you should love
Every other place above,
Which is why we would remark as we go:

CHORUS.

Home trade! Home trade!
It's 'way ahead of roam trade.
So kindly keep your dollars in the town.
Spend them, lend them,
But never, never send them
Around the world to wander up and down.

Though the town be but small,
Not a big burg at all,
'Tis the place where all your interests are at,
And you'll be very wise
And your stock it will rise
If you'll paste this little chorus in your hat:

CHORUS.

Home trade! Home trade!
It's 'way ahead of roam trade.
So kindly cut the catalogues out.
Chase them, erase them
And never try to trace them,
But plant your dollars here at home to sprout.

The third annual session of the Clinical Congress of Surgeons ended in the Waldorf-Astoria. More than 150 clinics have been held daily, while nearly 3000 operations were performed for the benefit of visitors.

Governor Eugene L. Foss of Massachusetts has appointed Mrs. John Hays Hammond a member of the Massachusetts committee to represent that State at the Panama-Pacific Exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915.

Secretary of the Interior Fisher flatly told water power corporations holding licenses that they would be forced to grant reasonable rates to consumers, regardless of ancient contract rights to the contrary.

Four additional companies of State militia were rushed into the coal strike district of West Virginia to reinforce four companies now in the field. Armed miners are marching toward Paint Creek to "clean it up."

Governor James H. Hawley decided at the last moment not to resign his office to accept the appointment of United States Senator at the hands of Lieutenant-Governor Sweetser, and has appointed Judge K. I. Perky of Boise to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Heyburn.

Joseph Pulitzer, late proprietor of the New York World, who came to America practically penniless, and at the close of the Civil War, in which he served as a Union soldier, was still in reduced circumstances, left a gross estate taxable in New York State of $18,200,000.

A charge of abduction against Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, was dismissed before Municipal Judge Hopkins because of the prosecution's inability to prove that Lucile Cameron, the white girl whose association with Johnson led to his arrest, had been abducted by him.

"I would rather resign the Governor's office of Texas," declared Governor Colquitt, in a statement issued recently, "than to have my children studying a school text-book without Abraham Lincoln's picture in it, and I am the son of a Confederate soldier, too."

Cognizance of insinuations that officials of Milwaukee were hurrying John Schrank, confessed assailant of Theodore Roosevelt, through the form of a hearing without giving him a fair trial was taken by Municipal Judge Backus. He directed that the five alienists who are examining into Schrank's mental condition continue their observations until such time as they are convinced there is no possibility for an error as to his mental responsibility.

E. L. Brown, vice-president of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad, announced upon his return from New York that the electrification of the road will begin at once. The first unit to be electrified will be from Helper, Utah, to Salt Lake City, a distance of 121 miles. The cost of this first work, Brown said, will be $3,000,000. After that the road will be electrified over Tennessee Pass, in Colorado.

Attorney-General Casson of Iowa has been asked to determine what happens when voters elect a dead man to office. Victor Schirk was elected County Supervisor after he had been in his grave five days. A. A. Patton, his opponent, who received half as many votes, is claiming the election. The case has been sent to the head of the Iowa legal department for an opinion.

Clerks of the House Ways and Means Committee began work upon tariff revision bills for the special session of Congress which President-elect Wilson has stated he will summon to meet next April. Democratic leaders have been confident for some time that the incoming administration would force the tariff issue to an immediate trial, and much of the detail of the work of preparing the bills is under way.

Miss Mary Bayless, formerly of West Union, Ohio, has been chosen to fill the important social position of private secretary to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the President-elect. Miss Bayless, who has been a clerk of the Ohio Legislature and served as secretary to prominent persons in the East, will begin her duties at the White House next March.

Glenn H. Curtiss' aerial terra-marine craft, which flies like a bird, skims the water like a fish and rolls along on land like a ninety-horsepower racing car, was successfully tried out. The new machine has its wheels forward of the center of gravity and is equipped with a tail skid. The German navy has ordered a boat in advance of today's trial. The boat tried out will be purchased by the United States Navy.

PANAMA EXPOSITION NEWS

At a meeting of the California Society of Washington it was decided that the members would attend in a body the Panama-Pacific Exposition the first month that the exposition opened. The California Society has more than 500 members.

S. S. McCLURE, magazine publisher, now visiting the coast, says:

"I believe your Exposition will give a tremendous chance to the people of all nations who know little of the West to learn something about this great country.

"There is no State that lends itself so well for exposition purposes as California, because of its ideal climate, history, beauty, scenery and quality of the general spirit of the people.

"I know you will make good in your tremendous undertaking, because you have the initiative and will go to it.

"The men who can rebuild San Francisco can indeed make the 1915 Universal Exposition the greatest in the annals of the world. When San Francisco applies the universal principle of human experience and human psychology as evidence of her great achievement, and has the ablest and most public-spirited men govern the city, she will then afford the greatest single element for the great exposition.

"The completion of the Panama Canal will mean a greater development and greater population of your Western country. It is the opinion of experts that it will mean a tremendous growth for the entire Pacific Coast. Your State will ultimately be built up to support 20,000,000 people."
